

Common Law Declaration of Right to Conscience

To be used in any circumstance of illegal usurping authority

“Under the protection of Magna Carta 2020, you are hereby notified that I am exercising my Common Law right to obey the diktats of my conscience, which provides me with the lawful excuse to resist all forms of government tyranny, for which I cannot be lawfully arrested, punished or penalized.

Please be advised that, should you impede me in exercising this unalienable birthright of every Briton, you will be personally and criminally liable for any injury, damages, harm or loss you cause and everything you say or do will be taken as evidence that you have collaborated with fraudulent, treasonous and murderous government policy.”

If they respond, as they usually do, by telling you that there is a pandemic and you are bound to follow Lockdown rules...

“Freedom of Information responses have proven that there is no pandemic, since every government department has now admitted that they have no evidence that either the virus or its cause exist, as well as the fact that the PCR tests do not detect any virus or disease.

Therefore, should you continue with the enforcement of criminal government diktats which have no force of law, having been given notice of such, I will use all reasonable force necessary to resist your attempt to commit a crime ancillary to genocide and you will be arrested and tried for your crimes against the People.”
